Young Farmers Hold Barbecue

Thirty - one young farmers, members and guests gathered on the campus of the Vocational Agriculture Department at Appomattox High School Friday night, August 28, for the annual outdoor supper meeting of the Appomattox Young Farmer Association. This was the largest crowd for the special occasion when the young farmer members have as their special guest wives and family members.

Sam Davidson, president of the Association, acted as master of ceremonies in welcoming the guests present. Mr. W. C. Dudley, area supervisor of vocational agriculture, gave the invocation. A special feature of the affair this year was barbecue chicken prepared by Mr. D. W. Torrence and R. B. Carter, instructors of vocational agriculture.

The Young Farmer Association is made up of local young men who are engaged in the farming business or hold a deep interest in the field of agriculture. It is part of the education program of the Appomattox Department of Vocational Agriculture. Young men under the age of thirty-five are invited to join the club and participate in the educational activities of the Association.

Millner Places Region Contest

Ronald Millner, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Millner, of Route 1, placed third in the Southern Region FFA Public Speaking Contest held Monday August 31, in the Senate Chamber of the Tennessee Capital in Nashville, Tenn

Charles McLendon, of Georgia, was declared the winner and won the right to compete for National honors in Kansas City in October. A total of 12 states were represented at the contest with a combined membership of over 150,000 members.

Ronald was one step away from the National FFA public speaking contest, which is goal of many FFA members in their leadership training. He has been the only member of the Appomattox FFA Chapter since its establishment to reach the Southern Region contest. Several years ago Joel Carnefix participated in the Tri-State FFA Public Speaking Contest.

While at the Southern Region Contest Ronald along with the other participants were given honorary citizenship in the State of Tennessee by the governor of Tennessee, the Honorable Frank Clements.

Mr. R. B. Carter, instructor of vocational agriculture and coach in the FFA public speaking at Appomattox High School, accompanied Ronald to the contest.

Good Season Keeps Cannery Busy

5,400 Cans Processed In One Day

by R. B. Carter
Dept. of Vocational Agriculture
Appomattox High School

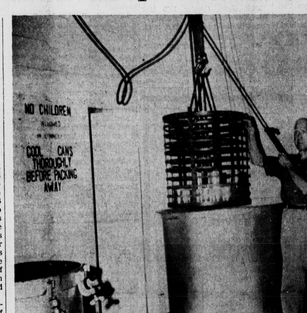
The school community canneries located at Appomattox and Pamplin had an extremely busy scheduled for the month of August. According to the records just compiled by Mrs. Virginia Williams at Appomattox and Mrs Southall at Pamplin, lay instructors for the canneries, everyone would agree. A total of 49,606 cans were processed at the two canneries for the month. Of this amount, over 33,000 cans were processed at Appomattox. This was an average of 1500 cans per day at Appomattox and 800 cans at Pamplin. The peak of the canning season for the month of August was on August 25, when a total of 5400 cans were canned in the two canneries.

Last year the cannery at Appomattox processed a total of 36,000 cans. So for this year in the months of July and August a total of 42,000 cans have been processed in the Appomattox cannery. The records at Pamplin also indicate that the more seasonable weather have made for better gardens. Last year a total of 10,600 cans were processed. For the first two months of the 1964 canning season 21,318 cans have been processed.

"It seems that our people in the county will eat much better this year," said Mr. H. B. Pack, instructor of vocational agriculture as he looked over the cannery reports. A further indication of the value of our canneries by county people was revealed by Mr. Pack when he stated that over 360 families have used the canneries at Appomattox High School and Pamplin Canery.

"From the looks of the late gardens and the abundant fruit crop I suspect that the rest of our canning season will be a busy one", said Mr. Clayton Beale, another lay instructor in the Appomattox cannery.

The school communities canneries are under the general supervision of the vocational agriculture and home economics department of Appomattox High School.



Clayton Beale, of Pamplin, cannery supervisor, processes the last cans of tomato juice for the day at the community cannery. Watching the work are home helpers Linda Elder, of Concord, and Kay Honeycutt, of Appomattox, each having a number of cans in this batch.

Correction

The TIMES-VA report last week that county supervisors had given tentative approval to a proposed Subdivision Ordinance, was incorrect.

County Supervisors did not approve the proposed Subdivision Ordinance being studied by Appomattox Town Council. They took no action on the ordinance.

Marshall-Caldwell Annual Reunion

Members of the Marshall-Caldwell families will hold the annual reunion Sept. 6 at the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Marshall, of Spout Springs. All relatives of both families are expected to attend and bring a picnic basket.

Mrs. Irby Has Served 16 Years

County Health Clerk Retires

Mrs. "Dot" Irby, (J.T.), who began work as County Health Clerk the day the County Health Dept. opened here on March 1, 1948, retired Monday, having served in that capacity for sixteen years and five months.

Mrs. Irby, well known and popular, first studied nursing, served as R. N. with Dr. Clyde O'Brien — then took Medical courses — then took Maternity Clinic, Pre-School clinic, X-Ray clinic — then took Medical Examinations as a clerk — then took Basic Immunization Clinics, Rabies-prevention clinics for dogs — plus year round services of a sanitarian and a public health nurse.

Dr. Clements, Health Director of the area since 1957, speaks highly of Mrs. Irby's service to the health department personnel and the public. She can work extremely well under adverse circumstances, "he said, and added, "I've never heard an adverse word against her."

Mrs. Shirley Irby, of Appomattox, has been named to succeed Mrs. Irby as clerk.

Reception Will Honor Pamplin Pastor, Wife

An informal reception for Mr. and Mrs. Janis Skidmore will be held by friends in Pamplin on Friday, Sept. 4 at 8 p.m. at Elon Baptist Church.
